SOLDIER SENTENCED

ST. PETER'S BIGAMY CHARGE

Sentence of a month's imprisonment was passed at the Kent Assizes at Maidstone on Monday on George Albert Fountain, a soldier, who was committed for trial by the Cinque Ports magistrates at Margate on a charge of bigamously marrying Pamela Iris Farthing at St. Peter's Church on 29th December during the lifetime of his wife, Annie Clara Ellen Fountain.

At the police court hearing Miss Farthing, aged 25, a post office clerk, of St. Peter's, stated that defendant did not tell her he was married until after the wedding, which was postponed from Boxing Day until 29th December.

When charged, Fountain said "I plead guilty. I do not wish to make any statement."

MR. AND MRS. W. H. LAWRENCE

BROADSTAIRS GOLDEN WEDDING

Having lived since his retirement in 1921 at Broadstairs, where he was once inspector in charge of the local police, Mr. W. H. Lawrence and his wife celebrated their golden wedding at 31 Gladstone-road on Friday.

The son of a police officer, Mr. Lawrence served in the Kent County Constabulary for 32 years, and when he left Broadstairs, where he was stationed from 1910 to 1913, he became superintendent in charge of the Faversham Division until his retirement. His only son is an inspector in the Folkestone borough police force and the family's police service totals 173 years, four of Mr. Lawrence's brothers having also been members of the force.

In addition to the son, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence, who were married at St. Michael's Church, Maidstone, have a daughter, two granddaughters and a great granddaughter.

A prominent bowls player, Mr. Lawrence has held the Kent County Constabulary for 32 years, and when he left Broadstairs, where he was stationed from 1910 to 1913, he became superintendent in charge of the Faversham Division until his retirement. His only son is an inspector in the Folkestone borough police force and the family's police service totals 173 years, four of Mr. Lawrence's brothers having also been members of the force.

In addition to the son, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence, who were married at St. Michael's Church, Maidstone, have a daughter, two granddaughters and a great granddaughter.

A prominent bowls player, Mr. Lawrence has held the singles championship of the Thanet League and the Broadstairs Bowling Club and has carried out the duties of secretary of both organisations. He is also a member of the Ramsgate Cycling and Motoring Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence received many congratulations upon the celebration of their golden wedding.

A DECISIVE PART

TRIBUTE TO THE BUFFS

In fighting in Libya The Buffs, composed of Kent men to the extent of nearly 100 per cent., have maintained the glorious traditions of their regiment, the second oldest in the Army.

Although they suffered considerable casualties in a fierce action, in which they were opposed by a great weight of machinery and metal, The Buffs gave a brilliant account of themselves, and inflicted severe losses on the enemy.

Tribute to the heroic work of the battalion was paid in one of the official communiqués which stated:

"The Buffs . . . played the decisive part in finally defeating these German counter attacks, in which about 20 German tanks and a number of Axis aircraft were destroyed."

Actually this was the climax to several months' desert campaigning in which the enemy have learned to respect the fighting qualities of these lads from Kent.

Following this battle, which at the time was of inestimable value to the Eighth Army, The Buffs retired behind the lines to re-organise.

Now they are fully determined to continue adding to the almost countless laurels won by the regiment in its long and distinguished career, and to avenge the sons of the county who have made the supreme sacrifice.

Kent is justifiably proud of the deeds of The Buffs.

PRESS UPHELD

COUNTY COUNCIL DEBATE

With only three dissentients, the Kent County Council last week referred back a recommendation to withhold from the press the issue of the quarterly reports of committees until the day of the meeting.

The recommendation was brought forward by the committee of chairmen following the decision of the Court of Appeal regarding a case in which a Metropolitan Borough Council had posted up at the Town Hall and sent to the borough libraries copies of the report of a Committee of Inquiry. The Court of Appeal had held that the Council had no duty or interest so to publish the report.

Alderman Sir Charles Igglesden pointed out that the case in question had no bearing upon sending reports to the press. Publicity was made to all the public in the case quoted but in this instance it was a confidential matter that merely helped reporters to read through the reports and be conversant with the subjects to be discussed at the meetings. The law mentioned applied only to outside publicity.

Councillor B. J. Pearson (Broadstairs), with all due respect to the ruling of the Clerk, said he could not help thinking that to withhold the reports from the Press was placing its representatives at a very great disadvantage and was against the public interests. He felt that they should continue to follow the example of other authorities, such as the London County Council, and issue their reports to the press some days before the Council meetings were held.

Alderman E. S. Oak-Rhind, confessing that he had not at first appreciated the newspaper point of view, moved that the recommendation be referred back for further consideration.

Councillor P. L. Wells seconded the amendment.

Trusted by the Government.

Councillor the Rev. R. Burgess said he thought the Press to-day was a wonderful institution and they should not do anything to hinder journalists doing their work effectively. They were sent out to the Press most important documents days before publication with a note as to when publication might be made, and seldom did they hear of a mistake. Editors were responsible men and they knew that if they committed a breach of faith they would not get confidential reports in advance again.

Alderman Major C. E. Pym, who presided, said it was not a question of any newspaper having published anything that should not have been published but the question considered by the committee was the effect of this change of law. "To my mind," he said, "it is a most extremely irritating decision of the Court of Appeal and I would do all in my power to set it aside and assist the Press."

Councillor H. R. Pratt-Boorman, emphasising that a reporter who was not in possession of the minutes came to the meeting without any of the essential background to the discussions that might take place, said the whole matter was being taken up by the Institute of Journalists.

Alderman G. J. Gully, who had moved the adoption of the original recommendation, stated that the measure was not aimed at the Press.

Other members present at the meeting included Councillors T. H. Prestedge and J. Olby (Ramsgate), W. C. Redman and F. L. Pettman (Margate).

9½d. LESS

DROP IN COUNTY RATE

The Kent county rate for the coming year shows a decrease of 9½d. to 9s. 4d. in the £.

Broadstairs and St. Peter's urban district will enjoy the full benefit of the reduction but the reduction will affect Ramsgate and Margate to the extent of only 4½d. in the £.

The estimates presented to the County Council last week showed an increase which would normally have involved a jump of 2d. in the rates but the decrease was rendered possible by utilising accumulated balances representing a rate of 11·54d.

A penny rate for general county purposes is now estimated to yield £38,810, an increase on the preceding year of £201.

BROADSTAIRS RATES

TO REMAIN UNCHANGED

Subject to the approval of the Ministry of Health, the Broadstairs general rate for the coming year will remain unchanged at 13s. 8d. in the £ and the water rate at 1s. 10d.

It was not anticipated in official circles that any reduction in the county rate would be reflected in the rate made by Broadstairs Council.

Broadstairs is one of the distressed coastal areas receiving assistance from the Government and when the assistance was announced it was more or less taken for granted that the then rate poundage would be stabilised for the duration of the war.

Broadstairs will, however, receive some benefit from the reduction of 9½d. in the county rate. A lesser proportion of the rates collected in Broadstairs will be payable to the County Council and the Government assistance necessary will be reduced by a corresponding amount.

Seventy-five per cent. of the Government assistance is in the form of a gift and 25 per cent. a loan, so the Council's indebtedness to the Government after the war will be reduced by the reduction in the county rate demand.

The Finance Committee of the Council met to consider the rate estimate last week and the matter is now in the hands of the Ministry of Health.

THEFT FROM CAFE

GIRL WHO KEPT COMPANY WITH SOLDIERS

A 19-year-old girl, who was stated to have been sleeping in the tunnels and associating with soldiers, appeared before the magistrates at Ramsgate police court on Monday.

The girl, Dorothy Rose Piper, described as an unemployed waitress, of Waterloo-place, Ramsgate, was charged with stealing from Cave's Café, High-street, the sum of 2s. in money, the property of Our Dumb Friends League, between 13th and 17th February.

D/C Hopper said that at 2.45 p.m. on 17th February he went to Cave's Café where he found a collecting box had been forced open and the contents stolen. At 10.20 a.m. on Saturday, in company with D/C Honey, he saw defendant at an address in Waterlooplace. He told her he was making enquiries about money stolen from the collecting box and she at first denied all knowledge of it. Later she said "I forced the box open with a pair of scissors and got 2s. out of it."

The officer then read a statement made by defendant at the police station.

In the statement defendant said she had no fixed address but for the past three nights had stayed with friends at Waterloo-place. She was unemployed but until three weeks ago was working as a waitress at a café at Upstreet. When the café closed she had no other job to go to and did not wish to go to her parents at School-road, West Malling. She was at a loss to know where to go to but she came to Ramsgate at the beginning of February and was given a bunk at the Queen-street section of the tunnel shelter while her application was being considered. She slept in the tunnel until 14th February, when she was told she would have to find somewhere else to sleep. She did find somewhere else but she did not wish to say anything about it. She had no money coming in.

Paying For Her Lunch.

On Friday, 13th February, continued the statement, defendant went to Cave's Café and stayed there from 10.30 a.m. until 4 p.m. having a cup of coffee. The following day she again went to the café at 11 a.m. and had a cup of coffee in the upstairs room and paid for it at the time. At 1.10 p.m. she ordered a lunch. Although she only had sixpence left and knew it was not enough to pay for it. She was handed a bill for 2s. 10d. by the waitress and at 2 p.m. she went into the ladies' toilet room and saw a collecting box standing near the mirror. She pulled the label off the end and then prised the box open with a pair of scissors. She took out 2s. in coppers and put them in her handbag and when she left at 4 p.m. she paid the bill with the money. She put the box in a cupboard behind the lavatory.

Defendant, who was greatly distressed, said she had nothing to say except that she wanted to make a clean start.

The Chairman (Mr. H. J. Perry) announced that the case would be adjourned for a month.

Chief Inspr. Butcher said defendant wished to have taken into consideration the fact that she paid a further visit to the café and incurred a liability of 3s. 1½d.

The Magistrates' Clerk (Mr. E. A. Knight) asked what was going to happen to defendant during the adjournment.

A Nuisance in the Tunnels.

Chief Inspr. Butcher said he hoped the girl would get work.

Defendant said she had no job to go to and no means.

Chief Inspr. Butcher said the girl had been a nuisance in the tunnels. She had no change of clothing and complaints had been made of her dirty condition and dirty linen. She had been reported for being in the company of soldiers. Defendant had stated that her parents lived at West Malling but police enquiries showed that there was no address such as she gave.

Defendant produced a letter from her step-mother giving the address but said she had not actually been there. She had been away from home since last August.

Chief Inspr. Butcher said defendant had informed the police matron that she was in a certain condition.

Defendant said she had been to the Labour Exchange and hoped to get a job in a factory.

Miss Robinson, Probation Officer, said she had known defendant since September, 1939. She was very unsatisfactory then. It was the old trouble of staying out late at night. The girl was very untruthful. The last she knew of the girl's parents was when they were living at Monkton.

After Miss Robinson had talked to the girl, Mr. Knight said he understood she was now willing to go into an institution, where she would stay for a time.

The Chairman said on that understanding the case would be adjourned until 1st June.

Miss Robinson: I believe she could do well if she could only settle her mind to it.

Issued by the Joint Committee of the 3 Thanet Towns

DISTRICT TEMPLARS

TO MEET AT BROADSTAIRS

An invitation to hold the next session at Broadstairs in May was accepted at the quarterly meeting of the East Kent District Lodge of Good Templars held at Canterbury last week.

Among the Thanet delegates present were Mr. E. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Jacobson, Mrs. H. Watt, Mrs. Larkins, Miss E. Coleman and Mrs. Lowe (Ramsgate), Mr. A. B. Impett, Mrs. Ware and Mrs. McCabe (Broadstairs).

In a comprehensive report, the District Chief Templar, Mr. H. Jeffery, of Ashford, announced that the Sunbeam and Advance Lodges at Ramsgate were meeting regularly in spite of many difficulties and both were doing useful work, as well as holding the fort. Once again he wished to express his admiration of the members in the coast towns who, exposed to the strain and stress of unknown dangers, so bravely carried on and expressed their principles in active work.

Pointing out that, as a nation, we were urged to economise in everything except the consumption of beer, Mr. Jeffery said he believed something more was needed than to counter the enemy's war machine with one equally powerful. In their struggle against evil things they sought, and rightly sought, the help of Almighty God, and he was inclined to think that—with all God's mercy—the answer might perhaps be delayed until they strove a little more for that righteousness which exalted a nation. He was far from saying that righteousness was only to be found in the abstainer but he was equally sure that in the aggregate drink was on the side of evil.

Link With Absent Friends.

The reports of the various officers indicated that many activities had been successfully carried out and that the juvenile section was showing an improvement, particularly in the Ramsgate and Broadstairs sections, while the Orphanage Committee had raised £50 towards the upkeep of the home at Sunbury-on-Thames.

The Editor of the "East Kent Good Templar Guide," which is published quarterly, reported that it had been the means of linking together many of their absent friends and it was decided to continue with this useful publication.

Members whose passing was recorded at a short memorial service included Mrs. Bones (Ramsgate) and Mrs. Bones and Mrs. Glover (Broadstairs).

Among the officers elected were: D.Counsellor, Mr. W. H. Jacobsen, and D.Treasurer, Mrs. G. Hunt, both of Ramsgate, and Mrs. Ware, of Broadstairs, was elected representative to the National Juvenile Council meeting to be held at Leicester.

Those assisting at the installation ceremony included Mrs. Jacobsen, of Ramsgate.

MISSING EIDERDOWN

AIRMAN ON HOUSEBREAKING CHARGE

Charged with breaking and entering Grosvenor House, Gloucester-avenue, Margate, and stealing a pink eiderdown, pink bedspread and other articles, Leg. Acm. Frederick Reuben Phast, aged 26, was remanded in custody by Margate magistrates on Monday.

D/C Lilliott said that at 11.15 p.m. on Saturday he saw defendant at Palm Bay and told him he was making enquiries con-erning a number of cases of housebreaking. He also told him that a quantity of bed linen and other articles had been recovered from his home in London, and asked him to account for possession of them. Defendant replied "I bought them of a man I met in a public-house in Margate. I don't know who he is. I gave him £2 for the lot." Witness told him he was not satisfied with the explanation and that he would be taken to the police station.

On Sunday morning, continued witness, he again saw defendant at the police station and defendant told him that he took the articles from a house in Cliftonville but did not know the name of it or the road in which it was situated. Witness went to Cliftonville with defendant, who directed him to Gloucester-avenue and pointed out Grosvenor House, saying "That is the house." Witness went to the back of the house and found the keys outside the french windows. The door was locked on the inside but he gained entry through an insecure window. Going to a back bedroom with defendant, he saw a large trunk, and Phast said "That's where I got the stuff from." When charged with the offence defendant said "I told you all I know. I took the stuff and am willing to help you all I can."

Chief Inspr. Fleet applied for a remand in consequence of the numerous enquiries to be made.

Defendant was remanded in custody until 4th March.

NEW ROAD WORKS

Notwithstanding the severe weather of the past few days, considerable progress has been made with the initiatory stages of the New Road works at Ramsgate. Double shifts are being worked by the men employed so that advantage can be taken of two tides each day. After an interval of seeing lights, supplied with shale oil, are burned, and the brilliant illumination supplied is of great service. Considerable interest has been experienced during the week in the removal of the large blocks of granite—some weighing 2½ tons—opposite the Royal Hotel.

THE MARINA

A popular member of the local clergy has now taken up his residence in one of the bijou houses under the cliff at Ramsgate Marina, the little colony now comprising a member of one of the oldest families in England, representatives of the Army and Navy, and most of the learned professions.

WHAT GLADSTONE DID

Speaking at the annual meeting of Broadstairs Conservative Association, Mr. H. H. Marks said they all remembered the acts of the Liberal Government of Mr. Gladstone, and of his heartless desertion of Gen. Gordon in Egypt. During the time of the present Government they had had six years of unbroken peace. The present Government had established the law in Ireland as they applied the law to different parts of the country.

POSTAL (DISAPPOINTMENTS)

"A Tory" wrote to the Editor: "Can nothing be done to put a stop to the disgraceful state of our postal arrangements? A gale's fall of snow and we are kept from our morning letters until midday. I think if our Member of Parliament were to ask of the Postmaster General till he made 50,000 independent of a snowstorm, he would gain more credit than if he talked antediluvian nonsense about Fair Trade and Colonial Reciprocity."

A TOUR OF PALESTINE

Writing on 9th November to his mother, Pte. Frederick Baldwin, of 1, Addington-road, Ramsgate, who described seven days' leave spent touring Palestine and the Holy City.

"Had a grand time," he wrote. "Saw all the places mentioned in Bible history, and went right up to the Syrian border. The sightseeing days were spent swimming in the Mediterranean Sea. I stayed at a hotel facing the sea. The Arabs are being in England again, for the country is green, which I had not seen since leaving England. Oranges and grapefruit grow there like apples in Kent. I stayed at a modern seaside resort near Jaffa. Now I am back in the deserts of Egypt."

Pte. Baldwin also mentioned that he has visited the Pyramids and Sphinx in Egypt and several other places.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

BARRY COMES HOME

By ANNE MARVIN

The furniture-removing men had departed, and Jenifer was left in possession of her newly-acquired flat.

Everything, apparently, was in its wrong place. Her cherished Spode vase had found a temporary resting-place on the divan. A bowl of white hyacinths and a corpulent hot-water bottle fraternised quite happily upon the red-tiled hearth.

Yet, in spite of the confusion, Jenifer was happy. She loved a muddle occasionally just for the pleasure it afforded her of getting things to right again; so she put on her overall and set to work.

She was happy, too, for another reason.

She had obtained the post of Furnishing Adviser to Wilson and Gladwin, the most important firm of house furnishers at Dunchurch. It was a job which looked princely after her recent thirty-five shillings a week.

It was a unique position, and one for which Jenifer, by reason of her training, taste and skill, was admirably fitted. She revelled in the thought of making homes for other people, and she was confident that this new departure would be a great success.

It was when she thought of Barry that her happiness suffered a temporary eclipse.

Barry was coming back from India soon to claim her for his bride—and she didn't want to marry him.

Ever since Barry was a pampered, golden-haired youngster, Jenifer had given him unstintingly of her love and loyalty; and so they grew older together

VICTORY—on Paper

Take to heart the precious nature of paper NOW. It is wanted for munitions.

Keep a box or basket INDOORS for every scrap of paper. Give it to the collector DRY—don't leave it out by the dustbin.

Do not put waste paper with ashes in the dustbin.

You may have some old books tucked away. Please turn them out. An old A.B.C. railway guide weighing 23 ounces would, for example, produce sufficient mixed waste to make four gun fuses.

When you have paper, cardboard, or old books waiting for collection, put a card in your window marked "P."

This will help the collectors, especially if you happen to be out when they call.

Leave your waste in a conveniently dry spot for them to collect.

A PRISONER IN ITALY

THANKS MARGATE FOLK FOR PARCELS

"I thank you very much for your Christmas greetings, which I appreciated no end. I am keeping well and am longing for the day when I shall be back with you all, which everyone feels will be quite soon.

"I should like to express my heartfelt appreciation for the contributions the Margate people make towards the Red Cross food parcels, which at the moment we are receiving at the rate of one per fortnight. Kind regards to all the municipal staff."

An air navigator, Sgt. Paul, who is 26 years of age, took part in leaflet and bombing raids over Germany, until he left England for the Middle East, and shortly afterwards was reported to be a prisoner of war in Italy.

MILK AND MEAT

ANIMALS IN ARMAGEDDON

We must plan now for the utmost production of which our land is capable. As a rule this can best be achieved by putting more land under crop and by aiming for maximum output. Cereals, potatoes and sugar-beet claim first attention, for they contribute most to human nourishment and also provide valuable by-products for feeding to live stock.

Not only our fields but also our animals have their part to play in Armageddon. Without food, and food of the right kind all human effort is vain. More milk, particularly in winter, is the nation's vital need. We must, therefore, plan to preserve winter calvers and we must rear more calves.

So tight is shipping space that we cannot rely even on half-a-beef. The English joint must come into its own again; and we shall have to harmonise milk and beef production—even if it means a wet towel.

We must, therefore, plan for our animals' food requirements—not only for early bite but for bite all the year round, especially at that season when Nature takes a well-earned rest. This means more grass from less grassland, more hay, more silage. Once again we must invite our old friend, sulphate of ammonia, to do his duty.

We must undersow in cereals, not only to produce a clean bite in autumn but also to provide more hay in 1943, perhaps seed also, and to rest and restore our weary acres. We must supplement with special fodder crops, such as pea and oat mixture for hay or silage, preferably undersown with Italian rye grass to ensure a rich aftermath.

Then there are those time-honoured standbys—kale and mangolds. The more you feed them the better they be.

"This war is not a game to be played according to certain rules. It is a life-and-death struggle for survival, and in that struggle there are and must be no partial interests."—Sir Stafford Cripps.

FIREMAN FINED

HELPED HIMSELF TO AN AXE

A milk roundsman who joined the Fire Service in August, 1940, Fireman John Walter Steers, 33, of Argyle-avenue, Margate, was fined £2 at the borough court on Wednesday for stealing an axe, value 1s. 6d., the property of the Corporation, from the Civil Defence headquarters.

The axe, which was nailed on the door of a locked store, was missed on 5th February. Defendant, who was interrogated at the Empire fire station by P/S Russell and P/C Banister, in the presence of Company Officer McCayna, said he knew nothing at all about it and raised no objection to a search of his house, where the axe was found behind a black-out frame in a tool shed. Steers said the axe was given to him but when identifying marks on it were pointed out to him he said "Well, sir, I took it." Afterwards he said: "I am sorry I did not tell you before but I didn't want to say anything in front of Company Officer McCayna."

Stating that defendant was a married man with three children, the Chief Constable, Mr. W. Palmer, said it was rather an impudent theft.

Announcing the fine, the Chairman, Mr. W. Booth Reeve, said they were sorry to see a man with such a good character in that position but there was too much of that sort of thing going on and they hoped the fine would be a lesson.

CAPT. C. R. BUCK

KILLED WHILE FLYING

One of the best-known bridge players in Kent, Capt. George Rupert Buck, Royal Artillery, formerly of Birchington, has been killed while flying.

At one time a master at Grenham House School, Birchington, Capt. Buck married Miss Joyce Isabel Clarke, daughter of Mr. A. B. Clarke, of Butna Ben Cliff-road.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Buck were prominently associated with Birchington Bridge Club and represented the club in the Kent League.

Mrs. Buck is at present living at Chorley Wood.

WILL DISPUTE

RAMSGATE WOMAN'S BEQUESTS

In the Probate Court last week, Mr. Justice Hodson had before him an action concerning the will of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Ailsworth, of Queen's Gate-road, Ramsgate, who died in September, 1940.

Mr. Mortimer, for the executors, Mr. D. W. H. Murton Neale and Mr. Augustus Turner executors for the de eased under her will dated September, 1938 said they were the plaintiffs in the action, and defendants were Dr. Areline Wailer, Miss Phyllis Newcombe, and testator's husband, Mr. A. G. Ailsworth.

Under the will of September, 1938, her executors received £200 each, her husband an annuity of 10s. a week, and the residue was shared between the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children and the Ramsgate General Hospital.

The defendants Dr. Waller and Miss Newcombe set up a will of the deceased dated in September, 1940—nine or ten days before the lady died. In August, 1940, the deceased was said to be suffering from cancer and a few days later she was removed to a nursing home in charge of Miss Newcombe and Dr. Waller attended her. On 2nd September a solicitor was called in and the will which defendants put forward was prepared and executed. Under that will Mr. Murton Neale got £300 and the rest was left to Dr. Waller and Miss Newcombe.

Counsel said the parties had now arrived at a settlement and terms under which the defendants would have a share had been arranged and were accepted by all the parties to the suit. The court was asked to pronounce for the will of September, 1938, and against the will of September, 1940.

The will was proved in solemn form and his lordship pronounced for the will of 1938 and approved the terms of settlement. He pronounced against the will of 1940.

BIRCHINGTON POSTMASTER

RAMSGATE MAN'S APPOINTMENT

Mr. L. W. O. Smith, sorting clerk and telegraphist at Ramsgate Post Office, has been appointed Postmaster at Birchington.

Mr. Smith, who takes up his new duties at the beginning of next month, is a son of Mr. H. O. Smith, who for many years has been associated with St. Lawrence College, Ramsgate.

He first attended Holy Trinity School and won a scholarship to Chatham House where he completed his school career.

Joining the Post Office service as a learner at Ramsgate on 10th May, 1915, Mr. Smith was appointed sorting clerk and telegraphist two years later. He has served continuously at Ramsgate with the exception of a short period towards the end of the last war, when he was on service with the Royal Engineers.

Following the war, Mr. Smith, together with his Post Office colleague Mr. Charles Stanton, was associated with the Ramsgate Operatic and Dramatic Society and he also took part in the presentation of "Twelfth Night."

When Mr. L. Spratt, who was Postmaster at Birchington, retired on pension at Buckingham in 1940, he was succeeded by Mr. V. Cake. Mr. Cake was in charge at Birchington until last autumn, when he was appointed Postmaster at Bovington Camp.

The best wishes of his many friends in Ramsgate will be extended to Mr. Smith on his new appointment.

ROMANCE AND COMEDY

HIGH LIGHTS AT THE KING'S

Romance and comedy are deftly blended in the programme at the week-end at the King's Theatre, Ramsgate, this week.

The famous New Orleans Carnival which made headlines in the 1880s, forms the background for "Lady from Louisiana," chief feature to-day and to-morrow. Ona Munson is cast as the beautiful and imperious daughter of the lottery promoter, played by Henry Stephenson. John Wayne is the young crusader brought down to earth by circumstances by reformer Helen Westley to put the lottery out of business. Both Wayne and Miss Munson fall in love the complications of the plot begin, and the intervention of another man in the southern belle's father is killed, apparently by men in the underground anti-lottery movement. Also being shown is "Gay Vagabond," with Leo Carrs, Ruth Donnelly and Ernest Truex.

A rollicking new comedy, "Affectionately Yours," starring Merle Oberon, Dennis Morgan and Rita Hayworth, heads the bill for the latter part of the week. It tells the story of a flighty foreign correspondent who comes home to stop his divorced wife, whom he still loves, from marrying another man. Close at his heels in hot pursuit is his estranged wife, determined to keep him from getting back to his wife. Added to this are the machinations of a film editor, who wants to keep his best foreign correspondent unencumbered by family ties, the irate confusion of the wife's suitor, and the well-meaning interference of the Turkish news photographer who plays bodyguard to the correspondent. The programme will also include "Singapore Woman," with Brenda Marshall and David Bruce.

FRESH SUMMONS

ISSUED AGAINST BROADSTAIRS WOMAN

As a summons sent by registered post was returned through the Post Office, a fresh summons is being issued against Constance Merrick, of Osborne-road, Broadstairs.

This was stated at Margate police court on Wednesday, when it was alleged that she had ridden a cycle without a front light.

When the case was before the court the previous week the woman did not appear and no communication was received from her. As it was stated that the woman was endeavoured to serve two police officers, who chased her in a car, and then became very abusive and threatened, the magistrates adjourned the case and ordered defendant to attend court.

On Wednesday the Chief Constable (Mr. W. Palmer) said he understood the summons had since been returned to the Magistrates' Clerk's office, not having been accepted. A new summons would be issued and the case would come before the court the following week.

DROPPED OFF TO SLEEP

WOKE TO FIND BABY DEAD

A warning to parents of the danger of having young children in bed with them was given by Ramsgate Borough Coroner (Mr. J. H. Robinson) at an inquest on Wednesday.

The inquest was on Sheila Ann Godfrey, five-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Godfrey, of 81 South Eastern-road, Ramsgate.

As the baby cried on Monday night Mrs. Godfrey took her into her bed, intending to return her to the cradle when she had stopped crying. Mrs. Godfrey dropped off to sleep and when she was awakened by the alarm clock at 4.30 the following morning the baby was dead.

Mr. Dennis Richard Godfrey, father of the baby, said he was a miner employed at Chislet Colliery. In addition to Sheila, he had a boy aged two. On Monday he and his wife went to bed at about 11.30 p.m. The baby usually slept in a basket cradle near the bed but when they went to bed the baby was crying. His wife tried to quieten her but she would not go to sleep so his wife took the baby into bed with her. The baby was lying between witness and his wife. Witness dropped off to sleep and he woke up at 4.30 a.m. his wife asked him to look at the baby as she was pale. The baby was lying on his wife's right arm facing her mother. He turned the baby over and came to the conclusion it was dead. He then summoned a doctor. Dr. Gordon arrived at 5.10 a.m.

Strong and Healthy.

Witness said the child had always been strong and healthy. Only about twice previously had his wife taken the child into bed with her when she could not sleep.

Dr. A. N. Gordon said he was called to the house at about 5 a.m. the previous morning and the baby was dead. The child was not in a very natural position. It looked as if the baby's head had, in his sleep, moved and pressed against the child's chest. Death was due to suffocation caused by this pressure. It was a big temptation but it was a great mistake for parents to take children into bed with them. If people realised the danger more they would be more careful. Even an arm lying on a child's chest was sufficient to prevent a child breathing. If a child was taken into bed it should be put back into its cot before the parents went to sleep. Parents should realise it was a dangerous practise.

The mother of the baby, Mrs. Beatrice Violet Godfrey, corroborated the evidence given by her husband and said she intended to put the baby back in her cradle before she went to sleep. She dropped off to sleep and when she awoke at 4.30 a.m. the child was dead.

Returning a verdict of "Accidental death," the Coroner said that 20 or 30 years ago deaths of children in bed with their parents were much more frequent than they were now. The practise nowadays was for children to have separate cots to sleep in. Deaths from this cause were now fewer because parents had learned that it was a dangerous practise.

Lost at a Tenth Child.

Continuing, the Coroner said Dr. Gordon had told him that parents often took children into bed with them, perhaps on a cold weather night, to get them thoroughly warm, and then put them back into their cots. He had stressed that to do what Mrs. Godfrey intended to do. If parents knew how little pressure would stop a baby breathing they would take more strenuous efforts to keep awake until the baby had gone to sleep and would be put back into the cot.

Emphasising that he had the greatest sympathy for Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey in their loss, he was also sorry for them, Mr. Robinson said many young parents did not realise the danger. Last year he had had two inquests on children who lost their lives in a similar manner. In one case a baby was taken temporarily into bed with its mother so as to be safer during an air raid. The second, curiously enough, was a tenth child and the mother told him she had done the same with all ten children and nothing had happened previously. There was always a danger of it happening and parents should be very careful to change their habits and make sure the baby was put back into its cot before they went to sleep.

Again expressing his sympathy with Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey, the Coroner said he had no doubt they did what they thought to be right at the time. It was purely a misfortune that the mother dropped off to sleep as soon as the baby.

SOLDIER'S ADMISSION

ALLEGED THEFT AT MARGATE

Stated to have broken out of close arrest while waiting for trial by court martial, Pte. Stanley Herbert Allen, aged 24, again appeared before the magistrates at Margate police court on Wednesday.

Allen had been remanded on a charge of breaking and entering Connaught Lodge, Harold-road, Margate, and stealing clothing.

On Wednesday the Chief Constable (Mr. W. Palmer) said he could not offer any evidence on that charge. The property was not stolen from Connaught Lodge. That information was given by defendant before the police could communicate with the owner.

The bench agreed to that charge being dismissed, and defendant was then charged with breaking and entering 41 Harold-road, the house of Benjamin Myers, and stealing a suit, pullover, shirt, pair of boots, rule, pocket knife, padlock and chain, leather watch case and purse, the property of Norman Blechner.

The Chief Constable said there was no doubt that the property came from the house, which was next door to Connaught Lodge. The owner was believed to be in Landudno and in order to try to trace him it would be necessary to ask for a remand.

P/C Thomson said he saw the accused in Maidstone Prison the previous day and told him he was making inquiries about a case of housebreaking at 41 Harold-road. Allen replied "Yes, I did go in there. I found the door open. I was looking round for a place to hide. I saw a trunk and sorted out the suit, pullover and pair of boots, and other articles which I took. I took the clothes into the house next door and hid them away in the kitchen."

Defendant was remanded in custody for a fortnight.

Rationalising Deliveries

Traders Must Work Together

SAVING PETROL AND MAN-POWER

A warning that if tradesmen did not "rationalise" the delivery of goods they would be deprived of petrol supplies was given by Mr. W. Brett, East Kent Area Sub-District Transport Manager, Ministry of War Transport, at a meeting of Ramsgate and Broadstairs traders, held under the auspices of Ramsgate Chamber of Commerce, at Clarendon House, Ramsgate, on Tuesday.

Alderman J. J. White, who presided, said that although Mr. Brett might be compassionate towards them, he came with drastic instructions. They had somehow to work out a scheme to save 25 per cent in both petrol and labour.

Mr. Brett said the Government were asking that retail traders should save 10,000,000 gallons of fuel a year. The idea was that each area should formulate a co-operative scheme among the traders in order to secure this end.

Five Schemes.

There were five schemes, any of which might be adopted. They were: A—Pooling of vehicles and the provision of a common delivery for a number of shops in the same locality; B—Zoning of areas and restricting customers to suppliers in those areas; C—Stopping retailers from delivering outside the areas of their own schemes; D—Providing routes over which no deliveries should be made except to hospitals and similar institutions; E—Restriction of the days on which deliveries would be made.

Mr. Brett said the various types of traders would have to meet and draft their own schemes and in turn these schemes would have to be co-ordinated by the Chamber of Commerce. There should be no overlapping. The complete scheme would then be sent to him and he would submit it to the Regional Commissioner.

Butchers' Offer.

Mr. A. Baker, representing the butchers, said it would be most unsatisfactory to carry meat and groceries in the same van. Personally he favoured "cash and carry," but the scheme proposed by the butchers was that they should deliver on one day a week, by using Saturday. They felt the public should have some kind of service. In 1940 there were 96 trades and 71 cars engaged in the delivery of meat in Ramsgate. At the present time there were 24 bicycles and two motor cars. They would guarantee a saving of 25 per cent. of petrol.

Mr. Brett said that type of scheme was customary for rural areas. He would like them to consider cutting out all town deliveries, except for invalids and institutions. If they could introduce "cash and carry" it would go a long way to solving their difficulties.

Bakers' Rounds' Halved.

Mr. W. R. Mockridge, on behalf of the bakers, said they were now restricted to delivery on three days a week. Each round would be split in half so that a roundsman would deliver to half the area one day. Petrol consumption would be cut down by half and a further saving would be effected by the reduced time for maintenance of vehicles. The scheme would not prevent people going to the shops on the days they were closed. Mr. Brett said bakers did not really come within the scheme. He thought it very important in the near future bakers and milkmen would be zoned.

F. Gray said that so far as he knew the grocers had not met to formulate a scheme. There had been difficulty in getting out and dried scheme.

Mr. Brett said that beside saving petrol by the area scheme was also intended to save man and woman power. That was why the Board of Trade had set up a Food Area Co-operating with the Ministry of Transport.

The scheme being discussed at Deal, said Mr. Brett, was that within a radius of half a mile of the centre of the town there should be no deliveries, from half a mile to a mile deliveries twice a week, in rural areas once a week all goods to be delivered to a pool in the centre of the town. This scheme would cut out a great many vehicles and much man-power. Canterbury growers were preparing their own scheme and they were suggesting that there should be no delivery of parcels weighing less than 7lbs.

Compulsory Cash and Carry.

The chairman said that at the present time many customers took their own goods but if "cash and carry" were incorporated in their scheme and approved by the Regional Commissioner it would become compulsory.

Mr. K. Page said they would have to define clearly what for some people dealt in much heavier goods than others.

The chairman said he did not think that a central pool from which goods could be delivered in Ramsgate would be successful.

Mr. Brett pointed out that from 7th March there would be no more basic ration petrol supply and that would be supplied solely on the needs of the district.

Mr. G. W. Lane, of Broadstairs, said he thought Broadstairs traders would prefer the zoning scheme. There was a great waste of transport between one town and the other, and it was entirely unnecessary. The Ministry of Food would assist in any way they could by the transfer of registrations.

On behalf of the electrical trade it was stated that the delivery of accumulators and wireless sets sent for repair did not come within the scheme as it is a "one way" transaction.

"No business, said Mr. Brett, could rationalise within itself. It had to fit into the general scheme."

Credit Traders' Alarm.

Mr. H. Moyes, a credit trader said he might have 200 calls a day delivering goods and collecting money. He was prepared to carry other people's goods but many of his own were on approval and could not very well fit into a pooling scheme.

Mr. Brett said the credit trade was causing considerable anxiety and so far as his information went he did not think petrol would be supplied for it.

Mr. S. W. Hills, chairman of the Isle of Thanet Credit Traders' Association, said they could not form a group but they hardly covered one another's ground. He was 70 years of age, his two sons had been called up and if they took his car away from him he was almost finished. He had thousands of pounds out in various parts of the district. People were honest so long as one called on them for their money but they did not send it along if no one called.

Mr. Brett said that before 7th March he thought a ruling would be given on the subject.

Broadstairs' Own Scheme.

Mr. Lane said there were over 100 traders licensed for the sale of food in Broadstairs and he thought their position was quite different from that of the Ramsgate traders.

Mr. Brett said that if Broadstairs produced a satisfactory scheme of its own he would be glad to put it forward to the Regional Commissioner.

Mr. Lane said he would get the Broadstairs traders together to formulate a scheme.

Mr. A. H. Bowkett said that before the "cash and carry" was bound to come and they might just as well face it.

After Mr. Brett had stated that the completed scheme must be in his hands by 2nd March, the chairman asked that the traders should again meet to formulate their schemes and said that after they had been sent to Mr. Brett for co-ordination by the Chamber of Commerce would consider the completed scheme.

MARGATE NEWSAGENT'S DEATH

Well known at Margate as a wholesale and retail newsagent, Mr. Charles Alfred Payne of 28 Westbrook-road, has died at Maidstone, aged 58 years.

As a young man Mr. Payne assisted his father in a corn factor's business at Maidstone. During the last war, in which he served in France as a sergeant-major, he was stationed for a short time at Margate, where he afterwards acquired a business as a newsagent and later opened several branches at Margate and Westgate.

Mr. Payne is survived by a widow, three sons, two daughters and a step-daughter.

Following a service at Holy Trinity Church, Maidstone, Mr. Payne was interred at Cemetery, where the service was conducted by the Rev. A. Mapson.

Among the floral tributes were wreaths from the Margate Newsagents and the "Daily Express."

TRIBUTES TO THE RED SHIELD

Expressing gratitude for the facilities provided at the Red Shield, the Salvation Army club and canteen at Ramsgate, the officer commanding troops who re-ently left the district wrote to Mr. Charlton, the manager, as follows: "The welcome you gave helped a great deal in solving the problem of evening leisure."

The Director-General of Welfare and Education has also written stating how highly the War Office values the work of the Red Shield.

"In looking after the welfare of the troops," he stated, "you are at the same time guarding their morale, and the present high state of that morale is in no small measure the result of your untiring labours. We know the difficulties, and at times the physical dangers, under which you have to work and we admire tremendously the spirit with which you overcome them and carry on."

LEGION CLUB HOSPITALITY

The warmth of the hospitality extended at the Ramsgate British Legion Club, Cliff-street, to serving members of the Forces is indicated by a number of letters received by the steward and stewardess, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Tucker, from men who were until recently billeted in the district.

Typical of the gratitude of the writers is the letter of L/Sgt. Thorne, who writes "I am sure you will see us back in Ramsgate whenever we get the opportunity for, although we have had good times at other places, I can honestly say we have never been treated so well and so generously anywhere."

Other letters testify to the good fortune of those who had the opportunity to benefit by the grand comradeship of the Legion and the good times the writers had enjoyed at the club.

GWR LMS LNER SR

HE BOMBED HIS PALS

THE STORY OF A GERMAN PILOT

In 1934 a young German appeared at a civil flying school in Britain and signed on for a course of lessons. His name was Hubert Lehmann.

Tommy Rose, the record-breaker and now a test pilot, was one of the many who played a part in teaching Lehmann to fly.

"The little blighter had dinner at my place quite a few times. He was a morose young man but he made a very good pilot. He used to push off and fly round like country at weekends—he came to know this country quite well." Rose remembers.

He says that Lehmann's excuse for learning to fly in Britain and not in his own country was that there were no facilities in the Fatherland. That story stamped him a liar.

Lehmann took his "A" ticket and put in a great many hours' solo flying. Then he disappeared—it was thought he had returned to Germany.

Now, eventually, the Battle of Britain. The luftwaffe was soundly trounced. The great waves of bombers and fighters that came over were replaced by single "hit-and-run" raiders.

One of these single raiders—a Junkers 88—repeatedly attacked the aerodrome, now an R.A.F. flying school, at which Lehmann had learned to fly.

In "impossible weather" the lone raider would appear from the clouds and attempt to bomb the aerodrome. The pilot was obviously a bad weather expert and one who knew the countryside.

But the German pilot played his game once too often. He had dropped his stick of bombs near the aerodrome and was making his getaway when a Spitfire appeared and shot the Ju. 88 down. The pilot escaped by parachute and was taken prisoner.

A few days later the instructors and staff at the flying school received a message from the prisoner-of-war camp. It was from the lone raider—Hubert Lehmann. In it he expressed the hope that his old friends were all intact.

The reply was curt. "We seem to have taught you to fly fairly well—maybe we should have taught you how to drop bombs. You're quite hopeless, and everybody is quite intact." they told the young man who tried to bomb his pals.

TEMPLARS' ABSENT FRIENDS

The weekly meeting of the Star of the East Lodge, I.O.G.T., on Tuesday, took the form of messages from absent friends. The Chief Templar, Miss C. Ware, presided.

Visitors included Mrs. Lowe, who tendered fraternal greetings from the Advance Lodge, and Miss Berry, who gave greetings from the Sunbeam Lodge.

It was decided to extend an invitation to the East Kent District Lodge to hold the quarterly session at Broadstairs on Saturday, 9th May.

The intercession service was of an impressive nature, on account of the many messages from absent friends, and was conducted by the lodge chaplain, Mr. A. R. Impett, P.D.S.J.W.

Reports were presented by delegates regarding the opening of the new canteen for workers at Dane Hill College, the enrolment of the employees of the Isle of Thanet Gas, Light and Coke Co. and the affiliation of the N.U.G. & M. workers and the establishment of a branch of the F.B. ARE YOU GUILTY ?

WHY THE POST IS LATE

Do you ever grumble because the post is late?

If you do, or even if you don't, take note that all letters which you send are properly addressed, and so help to facilitate the work of Post Office staffs.

Many skilled Post Office workers have been called up for service with the Forces and substitutes who have had to be found in the sorting rooms are inevitably less experienced than those whose places they are temporarily filling.

There are a few golden rules which should be observed. They are: On postal communications always put the name of the town, the name of the county, and in the case of London and other big cities the initials of the postal district and the number of the office of delivery.

All these particulars facilitate sorting, especially when the place of destination of the correspondence is not well known, or is one of several of the same name—i.e., Newport, Norton, Sutton, or Stoke.

Delay of correspondence and mistakes in delivery are due in the main to the use of incorrect or incomplete postal addresses.

Type or write the address legibly in the lower part of the front of the envelope, with a clear margin above (not less than 1½ inches deep) for the postmark and post-mark only, leaving the left-hand bottom corner blank. It assists materially if capital letters are used for the name of the post town.

Another important point to remember is that if a house has a number as well as a name the number should always be given. Think of the postman, probably new to the job, who has to walk up a long avenue looking for "Chez Nous," or "Mon Repos."

"SAFER IN THE AIR!"

A young Australian wing commander in charge of a Beaufighter squadron of the Royal Australian Air Force in this country, tells his pilots a story of a parachute jump during the Battle of Britain to illustrate his view that "safety lies in the air."

The wing commander, who has the D.F.C. and a "bag" of half a dozen enemy aircraft, was then a flight lieutenant in a Spitfire squadron which was in the thick of the fighting. He was leading a flight over south-eastern England when his oxygen apparatus "blew up." The cockpit was set on fire.

"The situation," he says, "called for a pretty quick exit from the cockpit. I was upside down when the parachute began to open but somehow it didn't go according to book. My feet became enveloped in the thing. I wriggled and kicked and finally saw the 'brolly' flout and open. It gave a great sigh of relief.

"I landed in a potato field, badly winded. But before I could get up half a dozen land girls came running up with pitch forks, a spade, and a hoe. I called out 'Hello, girls, help me out of my "brolly".' I was rescued.

"Seeing I wasn't a Hun, they dropped their weapons and asked if they could get me a car or an ambulance. Suddenly they dived for their implements again, yelling 'Hold off, here's one and I looked round to see them running at a Home Guard who was stalking me 200 yards away with a rifle to his shoulder.

"Saved again. I breathed another sigh of relief; and when the ambulance came I thought I was really safe. But within half a mile it took a bend too fast and turned over.

"I scrambled out with a few more bruises, and was then picked up by a fire engine dashing to the spot where my Spitfire was burning itself out.

"The fire engine, too, ended up a minute later in the ditch.

"After that I decided to walk."

And that is why the wing commander always tells his pilots that they are safer in the air.

ONLY ONE DRUNK

SOBER BROADSTAIRS

At the annual brewster sessions held at Pierremont Hall, Broadstairs, on Wednesday, it was announced that, where the renewal fees had been paid, all existing licenses would be renewed.

The report presented by Supt. H. C. Wheatley, K.C.C., stated that 46 licensed premises in the area—31 alehouses, one beer house and 14 grocers' licenses—were open. Twenty-two premises—13 ale houses, nine grocers' licenses—were closed for the duration.

During the year no licensee had been proceeded against but one person had been convicted of drunkenness.

Mr. W. V. Brett, who presided over the bench, said the report was very satisfactory and he hoped it would be up to the same standard next year.

RAMSGATE'S SAVINGS

Ramsgate's contribution to the national savings movement for the week ended 14th February amounted to £1,753.

The sum was made up of £687 in Savings Certificates, £35 in Defence Bonds and an increase of £1,031 due to depositors in the Post Office Savings Bank.

AN UNIQUE FOOD BEVERAGE

A great many people of all classes have been interested the fact that a unique food beverage is exactly what they require to keep them going and enable them to do a moderate amount of work. More and more have realised the fact that in connection with food beverages there is one which really "fills the bill." This is Ovaltine—the food beverage which has the entire confidence of the medical and nursing professions and which has for long been the great standby in thousands of homes throughout the country.

There is no exaggeration in saying that this food beverage stands in a class by itself. Its unique feature is that it may be stated that it is prepared to an exclusive formula and by a process devised and perfected by the makers, neither of which can be copied. It is the combination of beverage, because it is all these concentrated nourishment, easily and economically digested, and which provides the vital nutritive elements needed for building up robust health, vitality and fitness of body, brain and nerves. It possesses the special property of making milk and all foods taken in conjunction with it more digestible and much more nourishing.

It further evidence of its quality is required it is only necessary to add that it has gained the Blue Seal Certificate of the Institute of Hygiene (the highest award obtainable) in recognition of its maintenance of quality and merit over a period of 29 years. It is the only food beverage to have gained this award; in fact, very few firms of any kind have gained this distinction.

Take Ovaltine in the usual mealtime beverage and note the change for the better in your general health and nerve strength.

REGULAR SAVINGS

GROUPS DRIVE AT RAMSGATE

When Ramsgate Warship Week comes to an end on 21st March it is expected that every street in the town will have its own savings group, or be affiliated to a savings group.

The group savings movement in Ramsgate has made remarkable strides since War Weapons Week, and it is hoped that Warship Week will give it added impetus.

At the exhibition will be a large diagram showing the area in the town not already covered by groups and appealing for volunteers for group secretaries.

Group saving is regular saving, and every man, woman and child should be a member of a group.

The first group to be formed is that embracing Chatham-street, the hon. secretary being Mrs. Danton, of 29 Chatham-street. The next further group is being formed in Highstreet, St. Lawrence. The hon. secretary is Mr. A. W. Terrett.

Since a number of schools have reopened in the town, school savings have forged ahead. The Hereson School group has between 200 and 300 members and satisfactory reports have been received of the progress of the Christ Church, Dame Janet Juniors, Dame Janet Infants and St. Lawrence Schools groups.

In connection with Warship Week the head teachers of the schools are arranging an essay competition, for which savings stamps will be given as prizes.

The Isle of Thanet Trades Council are taking an active interest in the savings movement and arrangements have been made for workers to be addressed by men from a trade union panel of speakers, emphasising the necessity for regular saving.

The emblem for Ramsgate Warship Week is a lifebelt on a blue background, for sale price 1d. each, and demand is already exceeding the supply. A thousand emblems have been sent to Mr. F. J. White, of St. George's Central School, for sale in Stafford.

GROUPS' BIG PART

IN BROADSTAIRS WARSHIP WEEK

The various savings groups in Broadstairs and St. Peter's will play a large part in the Warship Week which opens on 7th March.

The Northdown-road group, under its hon. secretary, Mrs. A. E. Davis, has decided to introduce an additional incentive to save during Warship Week by having as a special objective their provision of six lifebelts for use on the destroyer H.M.S. Thanet. This is an extremely praiseworthy effort, and it is hoped that other savings groups in the town will follow this example and select an objective in their area. Besides the many items of equipment that can be chosen as objectives, and there is no doubt that by having an individual objective to aim at, savings groups are encouraged to make even greater efforts but, at the same time, they are still helping the main objective of Warship Week.

If group secretaries are interested in this scheme the hon. secretary of the Local Savings Committee at the Council Offices, will be pleased to give them any information they require.

It is very gratifying to the Warship Week Committee to hear that savings groups throughout the town are making every effort to be ready to take part in Warship Week, and that new members have been enrolled. As an example of the enthusiasm evident in one group, Mrs. J. Hogg, the hon. secretary of the St. Mildred's-avenue and district savings group, reports that in the provision of members, only 24 years, has now managed to secure £9 in National Savings Certificates by saving threepence a week! This is just typical of the spirit throughout the groups and yet another example of the success of Warship Week and of national savings in general should be assured.

As pointed out already, the Warship Week objective of Broadstairs and St. Peter's is to raise, by way of savings, the cost of £6,000 as the town's share in the purchase of a destroyer to replace H.M.S. Thanet, which has been sunk in the line of duty. The sum cannot be obtained unless everyone makes a special effort, so that it is hoped that every man and woman will do their duty to make an increased investment during Warship Week. If you are not already a member of a savings group, join one now. The address of the secretary of the group nearest to your home can be obtained at the Council Offices. If, on the other hand, there is not a group in your district, it is easy to start one now. The work is very simple, and yet it is a big contribution to the nation's help in effort. The success of Warship Week must be everyone's aim and it is your chance to repay the Navy for the wonderful work they have done since the outbreak of the war.

Broadstairs savings figures for the week ended 14th February are: National Savings Certificates £296, Defence Bonds £70, Post Office savings £380, making a total of £746.

SALVATION ARMY WEDDING

Two popular members of the Salvation Army in Ramsgate were united by the wedding at the local Citadel last week of Mr. Raymond Victor Baker, Life Guard, Second Lieutenant and Mrs. H. Baker, of 133 Crescent-road, and Miss Mary Jane Elizabeth Freeman, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Freeman, of 75 Winstanley-crescent.

The bridegroom is on service with the Royal Engineers.

Given away by her father, the bride, who wore Salvation Army uniform, carried a shower bouquet of daffodils and white heather, and was attended by her sister, Miss Kathleen Freeman, who wore a dress of royal blue, and Songster Marjorie Copley, also in uniform.

Ensign Salvation Army uniform. The bridesmaids carried posies of daffodils and heather.

Major Dasey conducted the choral service, at which the hymns sung were "The Lord is my Shepherd" and "We pray Thee, Lord, Thy blessing send." Mrs. Copley rendered the solo "A song in my heart." and the Songster Brigade, under Bandmaster Copley, sang "He brought the wanderer home." Mrs. H. Baker was at the organ.

For the honeymoon at Faversham the bride travelled in a navy blue outfit, with green accessories.

"We shall neither secure nor deserve victory until the home front shows the spirit of self-sacrifice and whole-hearted unity demanded by the gravity of the situation."—Cmdr. King-Hall, M.P.

ARE WE FIT FOR FREEDOM

SOME DISQUIETING SIGNS

By DOUGLAS GOLDRING

Those of us who regard the restoration of political, social and economic tyranny elsewhere as they are rampant, among our principal war aims, have had some painful and eye-opening experiences during the past two years. In order to enjoy the blessings of freedom a nation must not only passionately desire those blessings, but must be morally and spiritually worthy of them.

The essence of real freedom is summed up in the familiar English slogan "Live and let live," which is only a shortened form of the injunction in the English catechism that our duty to our neighbour is to "do to all men as I would they should do unto me." To what extent are we showing ourselves worthy of the liberty for which the best and bravest of our countrymen are working, fighting and enduring great privations?

All around us we see robbery by means of "black markets" and other war-time rackets, the selfish greed of those who are making large profits out of essential industries and, particularly in country districts, the cruel persecution by local busybodies of evacuees who have been bombed out of their homes in the big cities. The spectacle is not encouraging, except, perhaps, to those who secretly desire to turn England into a "servile state."

"Bustybodied" Evacuees,

From my own experiences I could give many examples of the kind of poisonous gossip and un-neighbourly interference which so often makes the lives of evacuated townsfolk intolerable and adds to the difficulties of their evacuation authorities. The following story, however, has been given publicity in a Sunday newspaper and may be regarded as characteristic of what goes on in safe areas. Recently two young women, each with two children under four, left the security of the Yorkshire village to which they had been evacuated and returned to London. Both of them had been bombed out of their homes and both have husbands serving in the forces. They acted why she was returning to the danger zone, one of the women replied: "When we lived in the East End everybody helped everybody else, no one interfered with us and we lived our own lives. Here for nearly a year people have been busybodying, some have complained of us to the N.S.P.C.C. and other authorities, and life is rendered so intolerable by interference that we prefer to go back and chance it."

Rural "gentry," who ought to set a good example, are often the worst offenders. Evacuees who are driven by loneliness to visit the local pub, and have been entertaining soldier acquaintances not infrequently run the risk of incurring the enquire or the sneer of the landlord. They may well ask if this is the sort of "liberty" for which their menfolk are fighting, and for which they themselves have endured the horrors of the blitz, with stubborn courage and without complaint. I have seventy of the experiences of a Canadian soldier's wife who took a furnished cottage in a village not far from a military camp. When she entertained some of her husband's friends—also on bottled beer—she was denounced as a loose woman, accused of plying soldiers with drink and rudely told to get out of her landlord. Shortly before this, when a taxidriver's wife and children arrived in the village, after having been bombed out of their home in a coastal town, the alleged "loose woman," who was in fact a broadminded and motherly middle-aged woman, was the only person who could be found to take them in and look after them.

Exhausted workers in the A.R.P. and N.F.S., who sought a week-end's rest in the country, after days and nights of heroic service in the last big attack on London, often found themselves in "safe areas" little more friendly than that accorded to evacuees. Hotel-keepers complained of the same kind of complained of extra work, shop-keepers regarded them with open hostility, and the local doctor received askance at them as "strangers."

How Suspicions Start.

In the now luckily far-off days of "Phoney War" and "Mr. Sensibles," the readiness of rural populations to denounce evacuated townsfolk as "spies and "fifth columnists," if they were heard to make any criticisms, amounted at all levels of the Government in power, showed how easy it would be to establish a fascist "gestapo" in feudal England. There would be just as many informers and denouncers in some of our country districts as there are in Nazi Germany, Fascist Italy or "Franco" Spain. Shortly after the outbreak of war, a friend of the writer, an admirer of Mr. Churchill, freely expressed the view that Mr. Churchill ought to be Prime Minister," in the village in which he had gone to reside after leaving London. Almost immediately obviously inspired by patriotic ardour, were at once reported to the police constable. The constable thereupon, polished his helmet and went off to consult the local great lady. The great lady consulted the matter and eventually decided that the newcomer should be given the benefit of the doubt, in view of the fact that his two sons were in the Army. Later, he encountered the great lady on the village common during the time of day, discussed with her our recent air activities. Purely to make conversation the latter, no doubt, by a fiery article which he had just been reading, he remarked that it was a pity that "bomb Berlin." To his surprise, his innocent comment was anything but well-received. Later on, however, to his amazement, that the lady was spreading the report that he had "run down our glorious Air Force." He acted with promptitude and despatch. A libel action was averted, but the newcomer left the village, reached the commander of the local Home Guard, who improved on it by saying that the enemy had dropped the bomber of Berlin was a "Dutch Quisling" who earned money by assembling enemy aircraft!

The moral to be drawn from these and a thousand similar stories of the suspicious cruelty and un-neighbourliness of certain rural communities in war-time, is the one with which this article began. If we want to enjoy the blessings of freedom, when the war is over, if we wish to escape the horrors of the "servile state" of which Germany is now so foul an example, we must, like our forefathers, be worthy of the liberty we prize so highly. The willingness to "live and let live," which makes evacuated East-Enders return to face the danger of the blitz, must, somehow, be acclimatised in those parts of our beloved island "where every prospect pleases." At present, there seems to be good many safe spots left where the inhabitants have a lot to learn.

BONUS COST GOES UP

It was reported at the quarterly meeting of the Thanet County Council that officers earning up to £524 would now participate in the war bonus scheme which had hitherto been confined to employees earning not more than £320 a year.

The cost of the bonuses has consequently risen from £32,000 to £39,000.

BIRCHINGTON R.A.F. SERGEANT'S DEATH

Sgt. Albert John Pettman, R.A.F., son of the late Mr. George H. Pettman and of Mrs. Pettman, of Cressent-road, Birchington, has been killed on active service.

Twenty-seven years of age, Sgt. Pettman, who was a wireless operator-air gunner, took part in the search for the German ships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau when they escaped from Brest, but was not engaged in the action.

An old boy of Margate Central School, Sgt. Pettman was a keen footballer and played for both Birchington Football and Cricket Clubs.

MORE LITERATURE

At their monthly meeting the Thanet Rural Council had before them circulars relating to the new Fire Prevention Order and the operation of Section 11 (2) (b) (ii) of the Civil Defence Duties (Compulsory Enrolment) Order.

The meeting discreetly decided that supplies of the literature, together with copies of the Order, should be circulated to all branches.

CORNED BEEF RECIPES

Here are some helpful recipes for making appetising dishes of corned beef with the aid of Oxo cubes.

Winter Hot-Pot.

3 rations, of corned beef (6d. worth)
2 Oxo cubes
2 cups shredded mixed vegetables (carrot, swede, artichoke, etc.)
1 small onion or piece of leek, finely chopped
Small piece of dripping
8 ozs. flour
4 ozs. chopped suet

Melt the dripping in a medium sized saucepan or casserole and fry the onion lightly. Add 2 cups water and the crumbled Oxo cubes, and stir until they are dissolved. Cover and simmer 15 minutes. Prepare the suet pastry and roll to a round the size of the casserole. Put into the pan the corned beef cut in cubes and seasoning to taste. Place the suet crust on top of the meat and vegetables, cover and cook gently for 20 minutes, or bake for 30 minutes. Serve in the casserole or on a hot dish with the crust cut in portions. Four servings.

Corned Beef "Hash."

6 ozs. corned beef
1½ lb. potatoes
Small piece fat
1 Oxo cube
4 small onion if possible, or a teaspoonful chopped parsley

Dissolve the Oxo in a small cupful of hot water. Peel the potatoes and cut them into bits, dice. Dice the meat also and mix the potatoes and minced onion or parsley. Season and mix with the Oxo stock. Melt the fat in a heavy frying pan, turn the mixture in the meat and vegetable mixture and press down to form a fat cake. Cover and cook very gentle heat for about 40 minutes when the potatoes should be cooked and the underside of the cake crisp and brown. Fold over, turn on to a hot dish and garnish with parsley. Four servings.
